TO OUR READERS

WE wish to call your attention to several features of this paper this week. We announced several weeks ago that several features would be inaugurated by the publishers to make the paper of greater interest to our readers. We are now prepared to make a few definite announcements.

First, we have added a household department. This we hope to extend and improve. We also would like to have the ladies send us choice recipes and household hints. We will be glad to print them in this department, and every effort will be made to make this branch of our service of value to our women readers.

We have also secured additional correspondents from outside territory. This sphere of the paper will be enlarged from time to time. These innovations are only the beginning of a well-organized plan to make this paper the mostly widely read paper in the county, as it is now in this section. Other improvements will be announced within a short time.

HIM VELLY NEW YEAR

YES, its new year again. Not here, but in Chinatown. Last Saturday started another celestial year, which was greeted in due and ancient form with fire and nuts, China lilies and fireworks. These were the outward signs of the new year, but the more important phase of the occasion passed unnoticed among the Chinaman's Christian neighbors. Bills must be paid by new year. That's custom, and in China, custom is a higher tribunal than gospel. Imagine that system at work in this country, every firm and individual settling all of his accounts for the new year. What a saving on the time and patience of the nation it would be. As business is conducted today, those who pay their bills, pay for those who do not. A tax on honesty. If the man in the retail business were sure that every bill due him would be paid before next year, could he sell at lower prices? We think he could.

QUI BONO?

FOR several days this week the big dailies devoted a great deal of space to a man, who chained to the steering wheel of a car drove over every street of San Francisco. The drive took five days without a stop. Now it may be alright for a man to tire himself out this way and ruin his constitution, but what we would like to know is what has been the benefit. True, this man has shown that he could drive for a long time without stopping, but is anyone any better off for his having done it? He, himself, is still under a physician's care as a result of the ordeal, and no one, so far as we know is a bit happier for the feat. Is there not enough to be done of real service to humanity without doing the needless? Enough call for courage and endurance without wearing out nerve and fibre in a prodigal splurge? Strength and intelligence are only entrusted to us for the good that we may do with them. To waste either, it would seem, should be accounted as great a sin, as to waste money entrusted to us for a purpose.

WHEN LIGHT GOES OUT

THROUGHOUT the eastern part of our country astronomers spent last Saturday in an intensive study of the sun. Why? Because it was hidden from view, eclipsed. It is strange but true that the sun can only be seen and conditions there determined when it is hidden from view. But this calls to mind a seeming corollary. How often must a man be thrown into the shadow to show what is in him? If the sun were never in eclipse, we should never have learned of what it is composed. So if it were not for misfortune, many a man would never have shown to the world the qualities that go into his being. It is a long-drawn simile. But, perhaps, we partake more of the sun than we dream of.

LEGION PLANS NEW

MEMBER CONTEST

Redwood City Post American Legion this week inaugurated a new member contest with a view to increasing the interest and membership in the local post and also to gathering in the dues of the present members. The Post chose two teams who will seek to secure new members and to collect dues between now and the last of March when dues will become delinquent. Of the two teams, the most successful will then dine at the expense of the less fortunate team.

The two teams picked by the Legion are as follows:

One captained by Charles Ward; Edward Bowman, John Robb, Dean Covert, Stanton Mullen, D. S. Chiel, D. C. Willitt and F. Glehman.

One captained by Theodore White; Eric Thompson, Floyd Granger, James Debenedetti, Dr. John N. Blood, Vic Hildebrandt, L. D. Butler and M. Veovich.

LOCAL REDMEN VISIT SANTA CLARA TRIBE

Redmen from Metamora tribe of this city joined with their brethren from other tribes of the peninsula in a visit to Navajo tribe of Santa Clara last Sunday to take part in the big pow wow of the neighboring wigwam. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Peninsula Past Sachem's Association, and its purpose was to study plans for a membership drive for the various tribes. Plans for helping the wards of the tribes were also discussed. Tribes participating from this section of the county included Tippecanoe No. 111 of South San Francisco, Iaquia of San Mateo and the local tribe.

CARELESS DRIVER GIVEN ADDITIONAL SENTENCE

When Charles Osorio of this city finished a five-day sentence in the county jail last Monday for reckless driving, he was immediately re-arrested by Sheriff McGovern and was started on a twenty-day sentence for failure to report an accident to the police.

The former sentence was given by Recorder Albert Mansfield last week after Osorio had driven up on the sidewalk in making a turn at a high rate of speed, and had struck and injured Jack Keller, 6 years old. The second sentence was given by Ray Griffin, Justice of the Peace, on charges growing out of the same accident. Osorio is also deprived of his driving license for a period of sixty days.

SEQUIOA HANDS SAN JOSE DOUBLE TROUSING

San Jose came to Redwood City with the idea of winning two games from the Sequoia team. San Jose went home with an entirely different opinion of the local boys last Friday evening.

San Jose got a wonderful lesson in the art of holding the five-man defense. Both sides of Sequoia played tight defensive games as well as fast and effective offensive games.

Cofuri played his last game for Sequoia, although he did not make many field goals he was a mountain on defense and was feeding the ball to Foley and Jordan who both gave wonderful accounts of themselves offensively. Foley starting with his dribbling and sinking baskets.

Jordan was high point man with six baskets. The final score was Sequoia 24, San Jose 7.

The 130-pound game was fast and furious from the starting whistle to the final gun. Sequoia came out on the long end of the score 10 to 6.

Sequoia had to show every bit of basketball they knew to triumph over San Jose thirty and they did it. Ed Lawler did the heavy work for Sequoia, making two baskets from mid court. Al Oneto was there as usual with his sterling guarding.

The team shows a decided improvement every time they play and are keeping up the work they are now doing, they will be hard to stop.

Work That Counts

My friend, all speech and humor are short-lived, foolish, untrue. Genuine work done, what thou wilt faithfully, that is eternal! Take courage; raise the arm, strike home, and that right lustily; the claret of hope must yield to noble desire, this succeeded by noble effort.—Thomas Carlyle.

Apples Oddly Colored

Apple trees planted near a perpendicular rock cliff at Oshamers, Wash. produced apples that were colored one side only because the sun and light could not reach the side next to the cliff. This location was chosen so that the roots might find perpetual moisture at the foot of the cliff.

Linburger Cheese

The prominent odor of Linburger cheese is due to specific fermentations induced during ripening. This cheese is made from sweet milk, the curd being formed into cakes about five inches square and two inches thick and not pressed. The main cause of the putrid, acidic fermentation is the extremely moist condition in which it is kept.

Two Great Languages

The only living language besides English which is at present growing with any rapidity is Spanish. Spanish is the principal language of America from Mexico southward, and the population of the South American countries is increasing rapidly. Yet even Spanish is no likely rival to English as a world language.

German-Killing Metals

Germs that come in contact with certain metals are destroyed as shown by recent experiments. Copper, brass and silver are capable of killing microbes, but these metals also are most easily attacked by chemicals. In the tests the germs were not harmed by platinum, nickel nor pure gold freshly cleaned and polished.

Early Santa Claus

Kris Kringle originally meant Christ Child. It is from the German diminutive form Christkindel. It is commonly used now as Santa Claus.

Long-Headed Youngster

"I want home that evening without taking the youngster a birthday present, so when the subject was mentioned, I handed him a five-dollar bill," said Mr. Shambaugh, telling the story.

"Buy your own present," I told him. "He studied for a moment, then remarked: "Thank you, daddy—but don't you think you ought to make it six dollars? I'm six years old."

"And," concluded Mr. Shambaugh, "that's that!"—Indianapolis News.

Among the people of Florida Lee Gim Gong is known as the "Chinese Burbank." He has received award of the Wilder medal of the United States Department of Agriculture for developing a variety of oranges known as the Lee Gim, which has a capacity for staying on the tree several years after it is ripe without spoiling, while the tree continues to bear fruit and blossom. Another of his citrus products is the Gim Gong grapefruit which will stand several degrees more cold than the ordinary grapefruit.

He'll Make His Way

Frederick Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thomas of Greenacres, is not out of the grade school. It was the night of a basketball game and Frederick was enthusiastically talking of the contest when his father inquired whether he had the price of admission for the evening. The son replied in the negative. Mr. Thomas asked how he thought he could get in. "That's easy, dad, you see I'll back in and the doorkeeper will think I'm coming out!"—Indianapolis News.

Favored by Conditions, Moose Are Multiplying

George Cotter, game warden of Seward, Alaska, just back from an inspection trip, declares there are 5,000 moose on Kaniak peninsula alone, while from the Yukon come similar reports. The marshy country along the Stikine and Tanana rivers is some of the best moose region in the North. Where did all these moose come from? There is a theory, of Alaskan origin, that moose have been driven from the Canadian northeast by the continual hanging of guns year after year and finding their way slowly through the wilderness, have crossed the mountains into Alaska. The big animals have found climate and food conditions ideal. Hot summer with luxuriant growth of willow and birch, marshy lakes with lily roots, and dense evergreen forests for cover, offer moose pleasant home surroundings. In some regions they are free to roam at will and increase, for miners have left, the Indian tribes are decimated by disease, and it is too far inland for ordinary hunting trips. The average Alaskan moose weighs from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds and stands eight to ten feet high at the shoulders. Only the head, neck and antlers are usually shipped out by hunters, but the meat is excellent and the hide of value for leather products.

Fright Worked Cure in Arm Long Paralyzed

Fright has cured Russell Lewis, Seneca county (Ohio) farmer, of paralysis, says the New York World. Lewis' left hand had been paralyzed for three years. He was alone in his home near Bascom recently when he heard a noise at a rear door.

Fearing some burglar was trying to break into the house, Lewis caught up an ax handle with his left hand and started for the door.

Suddenly he realized he was using the hand which had been helpless for three years. He stopped and moved his hand, working his fingers back and forth.

With a shout of joy he ran from the house, discovering as he did so that a pet dog, scratching at the door, had been the cause of his alarm.

Married Men, Take Heed!

The mother-in-law has turned. At least she has in Orange, N. J. There the mothers-in-law have organized to let the world know that there is nothing in the mother-in-law joke, and to show that they are human and social beings.

Mother-in-law has been the butt of jokes of vaudeville artists for years—and, really, she doesn't deserve it. Statistics show that very few of her have ever wailed a son-in-law over the ear with a rolling pin, or dictated the pattern of his shirt.

And how very few stop to consider that most mothers-in-law become grandmothers—and everyone knows that a grandmother is a kind, good, loving soul, who is devoted to the child, and knows how to make delicious doughnuts and pancakes.—Brooklyn Standard-Union.

THE total agricultural output of the state for the past year far exceeded that of the previous period—and due to the planting and development of greater areas the 1925 crop figures will be substantially in excess of those of 1924. Therefore, California enters upon a year that is brilliant with promise of increased prosperity.

Through its statewide banking system covering 58 of the important trade and distributive centers, the Bank of Italy gives constructive aid to the agricultural industry in all its phases.

Army Trains Pigeons for Hazardous Flights

Possible extensive use of pigeons in directing artillery fire is engaging the attention of the signal corps of the army, says an Associated Press dispatch from Washington.

Observers in advanced positions release the birds carrying messages telling where the shells are falling, and they are trained to fly back to the lines. This method would be used when other channels of communication, such as radio or telephones, were not available. The Germans utilized pigeons to direct artillery fire on the eastern front during the World war. There are now 1,500 pigeons at various posts in the keeping of the signal corps, which has a breeding center for them at Camp Vail, N. J. The birds are retained at the various army corps area headquarters, in the insular possessions and in Panama.

It takes from ten days to two weeks, officers say, to train a pigeon to return to its loft and get its bearings. Pigeons do not fly at night and as a rule are not outstanding in intelligence. Difficulty has been experienced with pigeon flocks in the army, who wish to make pigeons a major method of communication. Only one bird in ten is considered capable of flying 500 miles in one day.

In the Canal zone hawks constantly menace pigeons while in flight. To overcome this a whistle is fastened to the tail of the bird, and as it flies the rush of air causes the whistle to sound and frightened away birds of prey.

Three Odd Specimens of Neptune's Realm

The leaf fish, inhabitant of the quiet bays and inlets of the Amazon, may be considered the most curious of fishes, says Nature Magazine. The eggs hatch in three days in the warm water. Naturally the young hatched are suspended by threads from the under side of the leaves.

Then there is the butterfly fish which remains absolutely motionless throughout the day. It may easily be found at the same spot near the surface of the water, but when twilight falls it becomes more animated. Flounders live on the sandy sea bottom. They are difficult to see because they change their color to match the floor of the sea.

Hydrotherapy in Medicine

Hydrotherapy, or the use of water as a remedy in the cure of sickness, was largely employed by Hippocrates in the treatment of many kinds of disease. It is mentioned by Horace, who speaks of the physician of Emperor Augustus, using this method for treatment of ailments throughout the Middle Ages. Likewise, there were many practitioners who used hydrotherapy. In 1820 Vincent Prissnitz began a new era for the water cure. The undoubted merits of hydrotherapy called to its defense many men of standing in the profession who became interested and studied it scientifically, and from their advocacy has sprung up the school of hydrotherapeutic physicians. Doctor Winternitz of Germany, in 1883, laid down the scientific principles of modern hydrotherapy.

Luxuriant Egyptian Homes

The houses of the Egyptians were beautifully designed, furnished and kept. They were a notable as well as an extremely artistic people, and lived most comfortably. They never allowed the weather to interfere with their comfort and health. When it was scorching, they opened their windows thrown open to the ingress of free air. When it became cold, charcoal furnaces were requisitioned, and these warmed the rooms. The house always had exceptionally high ceilings and opened out to long, large halls or courtyards. The large air spaces thus obtained were relied upon to dilute the fumes from the charcoal and to prevent poisoning.

Many Kinds of "Seal"

The following are some of the various seals sold in the fur trade today: Australian seal, the improper name for Australian rabbit sheared and dyed seal color; Baltic seal, the improper name for seal-dyed rabbit or nutria; Reddish seal is improperly known as hair seal; French seal is French rabbit sheared and dyed; Hudson seal is the improper name for seal-dyed rabbit or nutria; Northern seal is rabbit sheared and dyed; Roman seal is dyed rabbit; seal-dyed, dyed rabbit and seal, French rabbit sheared and dyed.

Record Hen's Egg

What is believed to be the largest egg ever laid by a hen recently came into the possession of the poultry department of Oregon Agricultural College. The egg weighed 11 ounces and measured 8 1/2 by 11 inches in circumference. It is 3/4 inches long or twice as long as the average hen's egg.

Birds Lightning Victims?

David L. Beach of Athol, N. Y., found a large number of sparrows apparently lifeless on the ground early one morning. He picked them up and one by one they revived. It is believed they had been shocked in an electrical storm of the night before while in nearby trees.

Whippers Rout Hoppers

The grasshopper pest became so serious in parts of Arkansas at one time that negro laborers with whippers were hired to whip out the grasshoppers in the cotton fields. H. K. Datcher of the State Agricultural College says the plan was an astonishing success as the hoppers beat a hasty retreat before the whippers.

Originally "Jaws" Harp

The name "Jaws" harp, is probably a corruption of the original name of this simple musical instrument, "jaw harp," so called because when in use it is held between the jaws. A musician named Charles Eulenstein produced remarkable effects with "Jaws" harp at the Royal Institute, London, on February 15, 1925.

Canadian Game Refuge

INVASION

Guarded from all that gives life wings, From fear of failure, every rough Contact with elemental things, We have been sheltered long enough.

Take your full toll of men and ships, Oh, fierce and inexhaustible sea! Lay salt upon our faccid lips, Teach us your terrible treachery!

Come, wind, and thrust a searching blade Between the doorill and the door; Dust, creep across each barricade, Teach us what these frail hands are for!

And then, when we have been prepared By sand that stings and salt that smart, When in adversity we've shared This wonder knocking at our heart:

Mingled again, identified With earth and air, with fire and foam, We'll fling these doors and windows wide, Saying to life: Come home.

Shipment of Caviar Is Soviet Monopoly

Caviar is one of the world's most expensive luxuries, outside of Russia, where it is chiefly produced. In Berlin it retails at about $22 a pound. In Petrograd or Moscow it is one of the favorite dishes of the workman, who takes home a mess of it two or three times a week, at a dollar for all that he and his family can consume at the evening meal, says the Montreal Star.

The roe is eaten with bread and washed down with wines aged in cellars of the wealthy long before the Soviets came into power.

The world's largest storehouse of caviar is located in Hamburg and administered purely as a Soviet Russia government monopoly. It is from this warehouse that virtually all shipments of this favorite relish of kings and czars of olden times are sent to New York, Paris, London and other centers. The fish roe, pressed and salted, is shipped from Petrograd in barrels, packed away here in a central warehouse and then sold according to the demands of the trade.

Haiti's Famous "King"

Christophe was king of Haiti from 1811 to 1820. He was a full-blooded negro who entered as a private soldier in the army of Toussaint l'Ouverture to fight the French, became a leader, Toussaint's successor, Dessalines, and after the murder of the latter was strong enough to have himself elected President of Haiti. When his power was contested by General Petion he retreated to the north of the island, there had himself proclaimed king and built his famous "Citadel." His reign was as desperate and cruel as that of Nero. Even his death was dramatic. Having suffered from a stroke of apoplexy which all his charms and voodoo spells could not cure, he decided to commit suicide. But not in the ordinary way. He was determined that his manner of taking off should be worthy of a great king. He had a golden bullet made for his pistol, and with this he shot himself.—Kansas City Star.

HAVE THAT EFFECT

"Old Jones has been treated with goat glands to rejuvenate him, I hear."

"Yes, I've noticed his increased tendency of butting in."

Houses Built to Last

It is almost invariably found that the solid homes of our forefathers were so well planned and built that any structural defects that have developed have been due to the settling of walls and foundations rather than to any weakness of material or poor workmanship. Recently a 200-year-old house on the New England seacoast was restored. It was found that the soft wood underlaid put down so long ago were as sound as the day they were cut and so much hardened by age that when dressed they made excellent top flooring.

Well Too Prolific

When Jack Pollard of Stanford, Ky., dug a well at his home he struck three kinds of water, each radically different from the others. In a shaft 21 feet deep. At a depth of 3 feet a stream of sweet water was encountered. It tasted as if it had sugar in it. At 11 feet the drill brought a flow of sulphur water. At 21 feet salt water was found and Pollard gave up drilling.

Determination Counts

The good book tells us that as a man thinketh so is he. No greater truth was ever spoken or written, a fact sustained by human experience throughout the ages. Translated into modern terms it says, "If you conquer who believe they can."—Grit.

Ancient Water Pipes

Wooden water pipes made from hollowed-out trees, and laid in the reign of Charles II, have recently been unearthed in Park Lane, London.

The Earnest Man

The earnest man is so few in the world that their very earnestness comes at once the badge of their respectability; and, as men in a crowd instinctively make room for one who seems eager to force his way through it, so mankind everywhere open their ranks to one who rushes zealously toward some object lying beyond them.—Dwight.

Marriage Solemnity

The two stages through which marriage has developed are: Marriage by force and marriage by contract. In the latter stage of development there was a solemn surrender of the bride by her guardian in the Anglo-Saxon times, and the custom of "giving away the bride" is traced to this solemn surrender.

Guild Has Many Members

Women's Co-operative guild of London now has 52,000 married working women as members.

Old Salem, Famous for Romance of Seafaring Days, Closely Identified With Early Telephone History

Old Salem town, once the principal seaport of New England, from which the square riggers cleared to sail the seven seas and returned laden with the riches of "Ormus and Ind," the home of Nathaniel Hawthorne, whose "House of Seven Gables" still stands, a monument to his genius, was closely identified with the early history of the telephone.

Here, in a quaint old Colonial residence (the Sanders' house shown in the illustration) Alexander Graham Bell did much of his experimenting that led to his discovery of the way to make a telephone that would transmit human speech.

Here, too, were laid the scenes of some of the early exploits of the telephone. It was natural that Prof. Bell should make his first public demonstration of the powers of his magic telephone in the city so closely identified with its epoch-making achievement. Thus it was that on February 12, 1877, Prof. Bell delivered his first lecture and demonstration of the speaking telephone before the Essex Institute, a scientific society at Salem, Mass. This first lecture on the telephone which was free to members of the institute packed the place to the doors.

The demonstration of the telephone was over telegraph wires and Dr. Bell's assistant, Thomas A. Watson, was stationed in the Bell laboratory at 5 Exeter Place, Boston, from which point he talked and sang into the telephone to be heard by the delighted audience in Salem about 20 miles away. The old print above shows the interior of the Bell Laboratory with Mr. Watson listening to Prof. Bell at Salem.

So great was the interest shown that Dr. Bell, on Feb. 23, repeated the lecture to another large audience that gladly paid admission to hear him, and it is recorded that they were so enthusiastic that they wouldn't leave the hall at the close of the lecture, and it became necessary to turn off the lights to get them to go home. This was the beginning of Professor Bell's telephone lectures by which he was able to keep the pot boiling until money began to come in from the leasing of telephones.

Today Salem is the telephone center of a large district in Eastern Massachusetts, containing six cities and many towns. Nearly 450 telephone employees work in Salem. At the local switchboard the operators handle daily on an average 38,500 originating calls and about 10,000 incoming calls from other central offices. Today 2400 outward toll calls and 2350 inward toll calls are handled in the toll room, Salem being one of the largest toll centers in the territory of the New England Company handling a considerable part of the toll traffic of the entire North Shore.

It is an interesting fact that at the close of 1885, eight years after Bell's historic lecture, the city of Salem had but 332 telephones and that at the end of the next decade, in 1895, the number of telephones had only increased to 351. In the next ten years there was a very large relative development and at the close of 1905 Salem had 1579 telephones. Another decade saw the telephone more than doubled and on Dec. 31, 1915, the city had 3735 telephones, which since then have doubled again, so that on Sept. 1, 1924, the city where Prof. Bell had much of his early work had 7691 telephones.

RACK IS CONVENIENT FOR USE IN KITCHEN

Lids of Various Saucepans Kept in Order.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The detail from a farm kitchen equipment shown in the above picture offers an idea for any kitchen. It is always a problem how to keep the lids of saucepans in a handy way, as they will not hang up, and if they are piled on a shelf or in a closet one is apt to disturb the entire pile to get at the one wanted.

CORNMEAL PUDDINGS GO WELL IN WINTER

Almost Everybody Likes Old-Fashioned Dishes.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Hot puddings go well on winter days. Almost everybody likes old-fashioned Indian or cornmeal pudding once in a while, but not every housewife knows how to make it. The United States Department of Agriculture gives the recipe below, and also directions for making two other excellent puddings using cornmeal, which may be either white or yellow.

Indian Pudding.

5 cups milk 1 teaspoonful salt
1-2 cupful corn 1 teaspoonful meal
1/4 cupful molasses 1/2 cupful of raisins if liked

Cook the milk and the meal in a double boiler 20 minutes; add the molasses, raisins, salt and ginger; pour into a hot, buttered pudding dish and bake 2 hours in a slow oven; serve with cream. Vanilla ice cream with this hot pudding is a favorite New England combination.

Corn Meal and Fig Pudding.

1 cupful cornmeal 1 cupful finely chopped figs
1 cupful molasses 1 cupful raisins
4 cupful milk 1 1/2 teaspoonful cream and 2 cupfuls of salt

Cook the cornmeal with 4 cupfuls of milk; add the molasses, figs and salt. When the mixture is cool, add the eggs, well beaten. Pour into a buttered pudding dish and bake in a moderate oven 3 hours or more. When partly cooked add the remainder of the milk or the cream without stirring the pudding.

Permanganate of Potash Good for Making Stain

For a pine floor, a good brown stain can be made by dissolving an ounce of permanganate of potash in a quart of warm water. This liquid is violet colored, but when applied to wood, chemical action results and the wood is stained brown.

Another brown stain for either hardwood or softwood is made from 14 ounces pulverized gaulth dissolved in a quart of turpentine.

Apply either of these stains with a clean brush or a sponge, says the United States Department of Agriculture, taking even strokes parallel with the grain of the wood, and wipe the stained surface at once with a clean, soft cloth or cotton waste. After the stain has dried for at least 24 hours, polish the floor with a soft cloth, and apply another coat if the color is not deep enough, or finish with varnish or wax.

No Stated Sum for Cher-h

The government of England does not appropriate any specific sum of money in support of the church. One of its important sources of income is the Queen Anne's bounty, a fund formed by Queen Anne, in 1704, to augment the poorer livings of the Church of England. There are also large endowments. Church rates are voluntary and cannot be recovered by law.—Washington Star.

Twig as Tooth Brush

Kim, the little boy in Kipling's story, was an English orphan brought up as a native in India. He cleaned his teeth with a twig, chewing the fibers thoroughly to penetrate all crevices, and scrubbing energetically to remove tartar. Most East Indians have white, strong teeth.

Report Snoring Snake

Natives of Brazil and Bolivia claim that the black anaconda when asleep makes a loud snoring noise. It is called the "dormiders" or snorer.

PACIFIC GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY

P. G. and E.

"PACIFIC SERVICE"

When the mountains are hidden behind a swirling blanket of snow; P. G. and E. men are toiling for you up there in the freezing cold.

During severe storms wires may break under the accumulated weight of ice and snow. Poles are blown down or go over under the weight of wires covered with ice. Ice forms on the poles as thick as 12 inches, making them veritable icicles.

Climbing icicles is only one phase of the war between P. G. and E. men and the elements. Often, waist deep in icy water, men of this Company work to the limit of their endurance to keep an adequate supply of water flowing to the mountain power houses.

Consumers who turn the valves of their gas appliances in perfect confidence that immediate service will result, do not realize the unremitting toil that men of this Company perform, often at great personal danger, that this service shall be uninterrupted.

The employees of the P. G. and E. appreciate the value of good service and endeavor to do their best for customers at all times. Where customers receive service which is particularly pleasing or satisfactory, notification to the Company will be appreciated in order that the employee may be duly commended.

How Prizes are to be Awarded

Every active participant in the Times-Gazette Big Campaign receives either a cash award or one of the other prizes.

The person receiving the highest number of credits, regardless of his or her district, will receive his or her choice of both cars.

Then the person who has received the highest number of credits in the remaining district, will be given the remaining car.

After the two first prize winners have been awarded their prizes, then the next highest candidate, regardless of his or her district will receive his or her choice of a $210 Radio set or a $100 Cash Prize.

Then the person who has received the highest number of credits in the remaining district will be given either the remaining radio or the $100 Cash Prize

The next highest in each district will be awarded a $75 cash prize.

The next in each district will be awarded a $50 cash prize.

All other active participants in both districts will be paid a cash commission equal to 20 per cent of their collections of all subscriptions, according to the rules of the campaign.

Rules and Regulations

- Any reputable man, woman or child residing in Redwood City or surrounding territory is eligible to enter this campaign and compete for a prize. Nominations may be made at any time during the campaign.
- No employee or consanguinity relative of any employee of the Times-Gazette office is eligible to enter this distribution. The Times-Gazette reserves the right to reject any nomination.
- The winners of the prizes will be decided by their accredited votes, said votes being represented by ballots issued according to the rules of the campaign.
- Candidates are not confined to their own particular town or community in which to secure credits and subscriptions, but may take orders anywhere in this section; or, for that matter, anywhere in the state or the United States.
- Cash must accompany all orders where credits are desired. There will be no exceptions to this rule. Candidates will be allowed to collect subscriptions and renewals as well as entirely new subscriptions and credits will be issued on both according to the official schedule of credits.
- Credits are free. It costs the subscribers nothing extra to have the credits go to their favorite. Subscribers should ask for credits when paying their subscription.
- Credits cannot be purchased. Every cent accepted through the campaign department must represent subscriptions.
- Credits are not transferable. Candidates cannot withdraw in favor of another candidate. Should a candidate withdraw from the race, his or her credits will be canceled. Neither will it be permissible for candidates to give or transfer subscriptions to another candidate. Credits on such transferred subscriptions will be subject to disqualification by the management.
- Any collusion on the part of candidates to nullify competition, or any other combination, arrangement or effort to the detriment of candidates entering into or taking part in such an agreement, arrangement or effort, will forfeit all right to a prize or commission.
- Any credits on subscriptions may be held in reserve and voted at the discretion of the candidate. The printed coupons appearing from week to week in the paper must be sent in before the expiration date appearing thereon.
- In the event of a tie for any one of the prizes, a prize identical in value will be given each trying candidate.
- In case of a typographical or other error, it is understood that neither the publisher nor the campaign manager shall be held responsible, except for the necessary correction upon the same.
- No statement, assertion, or promise, either written or verbal, made by any solicitor, agents or candidates, other than given in the published rules and regulations, will be recognized by the publishers or the management.

- Every candidate is an authorized agent of the Redwood City Times-Gazette, and as such may collect subscription payments from present as well as from new subscribers.
- Extensions of subscriptions will receive credits according to the credit schedule in effect when the first subscription was paid, except that no extension credits will be given in the final period.
- It is distinctly understood and agreed that candidates will be responsible for all moneys collected, and that they will remit such amounts in full at frequent intervals or on demand to the campaign department.
- There will be several big prizes awarded, besides a 20 per cent cash commission to all ACTIVE non-prize winners, but it is distinctly understood that in the event ANY candidate becomes INACTIVE, failing to make a weekly cash report, he or she will, at the discretion of the management, become disqualified and thereby forfeit all rights to a prize or a commission.
- To insure absolute fairness in the awarding of prizes, the race will be brought to a close under "sealed ballot box" system, and will be under the personal supervision of two or more judges selected from the advisory board. During the last few days of the campaign the box—locked and sealed—will repose in the vaults of a local bank, where the candidates and their friends will deposit their final collections and reserve credits. And not until the race has been declared closed will the seals be broken, the box unlocked and the judges begin final count. In this way no one, not even the campaign manager, can possibly know the strength of the respective candidates, which precludes any possibility of favoritism and insures fairness to the minutest degree.
- The Times-Gazette reserves the right to amend or add to the rules of the campaign if necessary for the protection of the interests of both the candidates and this newspaper. The right is also reserved to increase and add to the list of prizes as well as to issue votes on advertising card or jobwork, at the option of this newspaper.
- The Times-Gazette guarantees fair and impartial treatment to all candidates, but should any question arise, the decision of the management will be absolute and final.
- Two hundred fifty thousand extra credits will be credited to every candidate who turns in three one-year subscriptions or their equivalent during the first week after the candidate accepts nomination.
- During the first period, 25,000 extra credits will be given for each new yearly subscription; 15,000 during the second period; 10,000 during the third period; and 5,000 during the last period.
- Campaign opens today—closing March 31. In accepting nominations, candidates agree to abide by the above conditions.

The Plan in Brief

The object of this distribution is twofold—primarily to increase the already large subscription lists of the Times-Gazette, to collect subscription payments from present or old subscribers, and at the same time to afford our friends and readers an unparalleled opportunity to profit, and in a big way, through their spare time during the next few weeks. So, it is a plan that works both ways and to the ultimate good of all concerned.

In order to gain this end quickly and advantageously, the most valuable and attractive list of prizes ever offered by a local newspaper in this section of the country has been made ready for distribution among those who participate most heartily. Ambition and energy are requisites

The plan adopted is the fairest and most impartial conceivable. There will be no "double credits" offers, extra credits given or any other credit inducement whatever inaugurated during this competition. Neither will there be any long term subscriptions accepted. The plan of the campaign is straightforward and simple and is fully outlined in this announcement.

Let it be fully understood at the very outset that this is not a "beauty" nor "popularity" contest but a strictly legitimate competitive proposition for enterprising men and women, and boys and girls, and one in which no element of chance enters. One feature of this competition is the fact there will be no losers in this race.

Advisory Board

It is the sincere aim of this newspaper to conduct this campaign, from start to finish, in a fair, honorable and businesslike manner and to safeguard the interests of participants and absolute honesty in all dealings is guaranteed.

However, not all wisdom lies with any one man or institution and for that reason an Advisory Board has been decided upon, whose functions shall be to decide any question of sufficient moment that might happen to arise during the competition and from which a committee shall be selected to act as judges and count the credits the last night of the campaign. The personnel of the board will be announced at a later date.

How Credits Are Secured

The first step is to call on or write the campaign department for a free working outfit (consisting of a special receipt book, sample of the paper and other information relative to launching an active campaign.)

Thus equipped, you have but to go to your friends and neighbors, relatives and acquaintances, and have them clip all the free coupons from their papers or pay up a subscription to the Times-Gazette through you. THAT'S ALL THERE IS TO IT. However, you will never win anything unless you make the start; and while it will not be a very difficult matter to capture one of the big prizes, nevertheless you should start at once. You must plan out your campaign the same as any successful business man plans his work for a season, and above everything else let no one discourage you, but stick to the finish. Anything worth having is worth striving for. A few short weeks and you may be riding in your own automobile.

It takes credits to win, and credits are secured in two ways; First, by clipping the coupon appearing in each issue of the Times-Gazette. Begin by gathering them now. After a short time these coupons will be reduced to a lesser number of credits. The only restriction placed on coupons is that they must be deposited at the campaign department of the Times-Gazette on or before the expiration date printed thereon. Get your friends saving these coupons for you—they all count.

The other, and faster way, to get credits is by securing new and renewal subscriptions to the Times-Gazette. On each subscription turned in a certain number of credits are issued, the number varying according to the amount paid and during which "period" same are received at the campaign department. See schedule of credits elsewhere. So you see, the more subscriptions you secure the more credits you can get and the better your chances are to capture the grand prize.

To The Public

The Times-Gazette is giving this mammoth prize campaign, and the management of this newspaper positively guarantees absolute fair and impartial treatment to all who participate.

This is easily the most worthy and most liberal prize offering ever made to the newspaper reading public in this section, and it now rests with the enterprising hustlers to get busy and get their share of the good things offered. This is YOUR opportunity to secure, without one penny of cost, prizes that would ordinarily take months, even years, of self-denial and saving to acquire—and here they are offered to you in exchange for just your spare time and effort the next few weeks. It will behoove prospective participants to enter their names NOW and be among the first in the field. Remember EVERYBODY WINS in this great distribution, and your prize will be just as great as you wish to make it. It is truly the best spare-moment business proposition ever offered our readers.

How to Enter the Campaign

The first step in order to become a candidate and compete for a prize, is to clip the nomination coupon appearing in this issue; fill in your name and address and mail or deliver to the campaign department of the Times-Gazette. This coupon entitles you or the person whom you might wish to nominate to 5,000 FREE credits. These credits are given you as a starter, and speed you on your way to win. Only one such nomination coupon will be accepted for each candidate.

Early Start Means an Early Finish

The advantage of an early start are manifest. Not only do you have the time in which to secure the winning credits, but now and up to and including March 13, you will receive the maximum schedule of credits on subscription, while those who put off entering until a late date will have to take what is left.

WOMAN'S HOUSEHOLD

Household Work Now Taught In Schools--Kiddies Have Splendid Hot Lunches

HAVE SEASONINGS AND FLAVORINGS HANDY

Celery, Tomatoes, Peppers, Onions, Parsley and Beans Give Good Flavor to a Stew or Soup.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Almost everyone has an emergency shelf or corner in the cupboard, where she keeps extra supplies, such as canned goods, dry groceries and seasonings. Each housekeeper has her own requirements in such supplies, but the reserve should generally include spices and numerous flavorings for soups, stews, casseroles, and also for meats and gravies. These supplies are not intended to be drawn upon for everyday household use. When taken down for special occasions they should be immediately replaced or replenished.

Many flavorings are used in the preparation of meat dishes. Some of the vegetables used for flavoring may be stored or dried, while others must be bought in small quantities as needed. The United States Department of Agriculture suggests that it is convenient to keep on hand such of the following as can be stored without deterioration and to buy frequently those fresh vegetables which give a pleasing variety of flavor:

Onions, carrots, green peppers, parsnips, turnips; mushrooms and tomatoes, fresh, canned or dried; celery tops and parsley, either fresh or dried; sage, savory, thyme, sweet marjoram, bay leaf, garlic, lemon rind, vinegar, capers, pickles, olives, currant jelly, tomato catsup, Worcestershire sauce, curry powder, cloves, peppercorns, celery seed, meat extract, chili sauce,

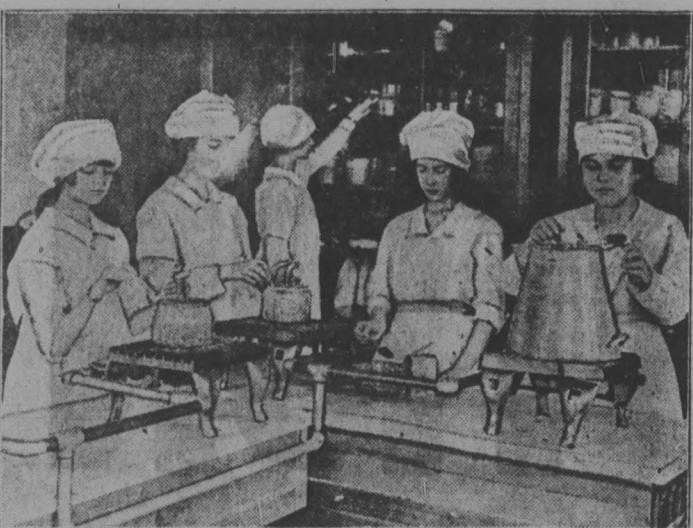

Removing Ink Spot

A large blot of ink was removed from a delicate bedroom paper in the following manner. Absorbent cotton saturated with cuticle remover (a toilet article for finger nails), was applied carefully until the ink was absorbed. Then talcum powder was patted into the wet rough paper, until the bruised part dried up and became smooth. A rubber roller used for mounting pictures finished the job of smoothing.

Composition of Chalk

Chalk is a soft, earthy, finely granular variety of limestone, white, grayish white or yellowish in color. Chalk is formed chiefly by sea bottom accumulations of the shells of small foraminifera, combined with numerous minute organisms known as siliceous radiolarians. The use of chalk is many. When mixed with a binding substance it finds wide application as a writing material.

LUNCHES SERVED HOT IN THE SCHOOL ROOM

Pupils Preparing a Hot Lunch for School.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In many places schools are beginning to serve noon lunches or one or two dishes that can be eaten with food brought from home. Mothers are interested themselves in this work not only because of its effect upon the health of their children, but also because of its relation to education for homemaking. In their own homes they try to serve wholesome food and also to train their children to good habits in eating. They realize, however, that the meal at school is in some ways a better opportunity for training than those served at home. Unlike the other meals of the child's day, it is eaten during hours set apart for education. The child's mind is therefore in a receptive condition, and every precaution that is taken to adapt the lunch to his physical and mental needs is likely to teach a lesson in food and nutrition.

The recipes for lunch dishes may be given to the older girls in school, discussed in class, and tried at home. The special dish for the day, which in winter is usually hot, can be prepared by groups of pupils working in turn. It is seldom desirable to prepare more than one dish a day in a small school, and this should, for the sake of variety, differ from day to day. It may be cocoa, soup, chowder, stew, a vegetable or eggs. Other food for lunch can be brought from home, or ready-to-eat food (bread, crackers, fruit, or cakes and cookies), can be brought to round out the meal. The aim should be to make the noonday meal appetizing, and to include in it the foods that children need.

The quick potato soup for which the recipe is given below is a good one to serve as the hot part of a school lunch. The United States Department of Agriculture recommends it.

Quick Potato Soup.
1 quart of milk 2 tablespoonsful butter or other fat
1 cupful grated potato 1 onion
1 teaspoonful salt 1 few drops of onion juice

Add the potatoes to the milk. Bring to the boiling point, then add the fat, salt and onion juice. Serve with or without straining. This amount will serve about 6 portions.

FARM GIRLS LEARNING TO USE PATTERNS

Home Demonstration Agent Showing Girls How to Use Dress Patterns.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Girls enjoy sewing together as much as older women do. The girls in the picture belong to a home demonstration club in Columbus county, N. C., conducted as a part of the extension work for farm women and girls. The home demonstration agent is showing them how to use a pattern. In connection with clothing construction and selection, these girls learn how to cut and choose and how to make over some of their old clothes. The plan for this sewing work also includes the making of furnishings for the girls' own bedrooms or for the dining room. A report received by the United States Department of Agriculture states that last year 200 girls enrolled for clothing work in Columbus county. Of these, 176 completed their work, making 362 finished garments valued at $382. They also interested 170 homes in clothing improvement, in addition to their own.

A BEAUTY TRIO, AND ZIEGFELD CORALLED THEM ALL.

A WOMAN'S IDEA

An Oxford, England, cable says the idea recently announced of drying hay and farm crops by means of hot air, and experiments now progressing through the medium of the Agricultural Engineering Institute, came from the brain of Mrs. Owen, wife of Capt. B. J. Owen, director of the institute.

Mrs. Owen suggested the hairdressing use of hot air for hair drying as a guide to solving the problem of drying wet crops, and her husband immediately developed the idea with satisfactory results.

The Scrap Book

Writer Tells Joke on George Bernard Shaw

An old story about George Bernard Shaw is not as new when the famous Irishman is once again in the spotlight, thanks to his "Joan of Arc." According to Lincoln Springfield in his book, "Some Pleasant People," G. B. S. was returning one night in his crib days from a ballet, deep in admiration of the prouetting of one of the dancers.

Nearing home, and still pondering the dancing, Shaw found the square in which he lived empty, so he began to try to spin, as the dancer had done, but unsuccessfully, as he felt each time. A policeman, who had been watching, picked him up from his fourteenth floor and asked: "What are you a-doin'g? I been watching you for the last five minutes."

Shaw explained. The constable thought for a moment and then said: "Would you mind holding my helmet while I have a try? It don't look so hard." He had a shot and fell, so Shaw and the constable took off their coats and went at it again.

Then the inspector arrived on the scene. After explanations he, too, joined in, and later a postman and a milk boy had a try.

Finally, the milk boy fell and broke his leg, and the others, including Shaw, had to stop and take him to a hospital.

Explaining Firm Belief of Cigarette Smokers

Why is it unlikely to light three cigarettes from the same match? A student of superstition has been trying to find out the origin of this most popular of recent beliefs in omens.

One explanation says that it started in the Boer war. There has seldom been a war in which so many men were killed or wounded by sharpshooters. It did not take long to observe that at night, if a match were kept alight long enough to light three cigarettes, the Boer sharpshooters would be sure to come and get a good aim. One of the three men usually fell, so it was not surprising that the habit soon became looked upon as unlucky.

Another explanation, however, says that the Boer war story was made up long afterward to explain the belief. This critic is more prosaic and he insists that the popular opinion was not heard until the World war and that it was started by the manufacturers of a well-known brand of matches who thought up the cleverest selling campaign for their product ever devised.—Detroit News

Tungsten and Platinum

A simple test for distinguishing tungsten from platinum is to heat the specimen to red heat or above. Platinum will remain unaltered. Tungsten will be coated with a yellow oxide or may even burn completely to the yellow oxide. If it is essential that the specimen shall not be destroyed in the test, a small amount of filings from the specimen may be heated with aqua regia in a glass or porcelain vessel. Aqua regia is made up by mixing three parts of strong hydrochloric acid with one part of strong nitric acid. In this test the tungsten filings will be slowly converted to a yellow powder. Platinum will be slowly dissolved to an orange red solution first by fuming the specimen with a small amount of sal ammoniac will yield fine yellow to red crystals. If the platinum is alloyed with iridium, as is frequently the case in material used for jewelry or for electrical work, the attack by aqua regia will be very slow.

Explaining Frost

The weather bureau says that frost is the deposit of frozen ice crystals formed on exposed surfaces when the temperature of the dew point is below freezing and the temperature of the dew point is reached. In that sense it is frozen vapor. Frozen dew consists of small pieces of clear ice, usually globular in form, found on vegetation and other exposed surfaces under certain atmospheric conditions. It is formed only when the temperature of the dew point is above freezing in the early part of the night so that liquid dew forms when the temperature is reached and later the temperature falls below the freezing point so that the dew is frozen.

Automatic Bank Clerk

One of the large English banks proposes to use machines for ledger-posting and writing-up passbooks. Such a machine was used at the Lloyd's bank branch at the British Empire exhibition, and gave satisfaction. Instead of a passbook the customer received a typed "statement" showing debits and credits and the current balance. The operator, after entering debits and credits, selected a sum marked "total" when the balance appeared. If the customer's account is overdrawn, the machine refuses to act.

Mother Finds Lost Son After 25-Year Absence

Manila.—A letter from a mother in Danville, Ky., to the Manila police department has been the means of locating a long-lost son.

Twenty-five years ago Frank Sapp enlisted in the army and came to the Philippines, where he served during the insurrection. At the end of his enlistment he remained here, engaging in various occupations.

In her letter to the police department Mrs. Sapp wrote that her son had never written home since he enlisted in a volunteer regiment.

The coast guard steamer, Pathfinder, which recently returned from the inspection trip to the Bahayan Islands, brought news that Frank Sapp, an American, operated a sawmill on the island of Camiguin in the Bahayan group.

On the next trip of the Pathfinder to the Bahayans mail from Sapp's mother arrived at the Bahayan Islands, a letter from the police department in Manila to Mrs. Sapp, telling her that her son had been located.

Play Ball

The two English-speaking nations have a good deal in common. They are both loyal to King Shakespeare, for example, and they also spend the greater part of their leisure time in doing something somehow to some kind of a ball rather than looking at Shakespearean revivals.—London Morning Post

YOUTH

Youth has no need of pirate ships. Of dark and tossing spars. Of the magic lure that lurks Beneath the guiding stars. Or chanters sung upon the watch By men who bear salt scars.

Youth has no need of secret trails. That to the Rainbow lead. Of Roads to Romance, white and wide. Youth has no urgent need. Not of the magic lure that lurks In some old wizard's creed.

For Youth itself is all these things. A sailing ship, a song. The Rainbow at the Journey's end, Bright Romance, Youth-time long, And all the wizard's wisdoms to Enchant Youth's long!

Whereabouts of Jenner's Famous Cow in Dispute

A curious discussion is going on in the pages of the British Medical Journal as to the whereabouts of Doctor Jenner's cow, the famous cow which provided the lymph for the first inoculation against smallpox.

It appears that St. George's hospital in London possesses the cow's hide, but the horns attached to it are not the real ones, being made of wood. Of the actual horns the Royal College of Physicians claims to have one, mounted on a silver plate with the inscription: "The horn of a cow given by the benefactor of man, Doctor Jenner."

There are other claimants, however. One of these, Mr. G. A. Turner, possesses a pair of horns bearing a statement signed by Doctor Jenner's son to the effect that they are the horns of the original Jenner cow; while Dr. C. H. Jackson of York claims to have the real original horns, given by Jenner himself to Doctor Jackson's grandfather, whose children he had vaccinated.

It is an interesting controversy, but it is doubtful if the matter will ever be settled to the satisfaction of everybody.

Chinese Waste Nothing

In parts of China there is literally not room enough to pitch a tent in the country. There are no roads, no waste lands, no commons.

Every bit of land, even if no bigger than the rug on your floor, is producing something. Every lump of soil is broken up, every weed destroyed, and each plant is tended like a baby. Though their methods often seem crude from a modern standpoint, they are usually effective. It is certain that the Chinese have been making the most of their land for 4,000 years, and the land is still yielding an abundance. The soil has not given out, the rivers have not dried up, and the natural resources are not exhausted.

The 245,000,000 acres now under cultivation in China yield products the total value of which is measured in billions of dollars. Scientific methods would increase the output in many lines from 50 to 100 per cent.—Exchange

Scared Rattlesnake

Jimmy, who was inclined to be a braggart, was telling his father and mother of his experiences while out camping.

"And all at once I stepped right on a big rattlesnake," he began.

"How did you know it was a rattlesnake, Jimmy?" asked his father.

"I could hear its teeth chattering the minute it saw me."

Measuring Light's Speed

The speed of light was measured first by timing the eclipses of Jupiter's moons; light takes about 10 1/2 minutes to cross the earth's orbit, so when the earth is on the side of its orbit away from Jupiter the eclipses will seem to occur at 10 1/2 minutes late. Several other methods of measuring the velocity of light have been worked out.

Peers' Relatives Commoners

The relatives of English peers do not officially belong to the English nobility, although to all purposes they are nobles. They may, however, hold titles through courtesy, but according to English law they are mere commoners.

Destroyed by Electricity

Big growers and shippers use electricity to kill insects that may lurk in bags for nuts. The sacks are run through an electric ironing machine which destroys, through heat and pressure, any insect eggs or larvae.

Millions Paid to Hunt

During a season sportsmen in the United States pay on an average about $5,000,000 for hunting permits and licenses of all kinds. This money is used by the various states to establish game preserves, pay for wardens and generally to reduce taxation.

Not Always "Mount Vernon"

George Washington's estate, Mount Vernon, was originally called Hagley Creek but when it came into the possession of Lawrence Washington, the brother of George, he changed it to Mount Vernon in honor of Admiral Edward Vernon, of the British navy.

WEDDING NIGHT

Across her casement all she leans Above the smoky haze which screens The crowding houses, set arroy. The sickle moon, the starry glow, The river with its measured flow. Not these she ponders on nor sees The nightfall with the falling breeze. Her soul remote, walks nunnike ways; Her spirit bows itself and prays.

Yet one—how bold!—disturbs her there; A strange foot climbs the virgin stair; One draws her forth and none knows where.

What happens when a woman goes White-veiled and garlanded with rose Along the church aisle's narrow cove To yield her dreams for ecstasy? On what high thoughts turns she the key To swing the door on mystery?

Ah, often when the dusk is still My seeking eye will scan her all Above the mist as gleaming dim, Faintly and scarlet at the rim. Outlines her windows curtained square And shows that casement lone and bare. How often shall I question: Where is she who used to linger there? To breathe her nunnike twilight prayer? Along what strange road does she fare?

Turtle's Wound Healed by Skillful Surgeon

No, sir, you can't fill the teeth of a turtle. It hasn't got any to be filled. But, after all, it's not so well off at that, because when anything goes wrong it can happen in so many places.

As a matter of fact, it offers the largest practice ground for dentists known to science. Although its teeth can't be filled, most of the rest of it can be. That was proved recently.

There arrived in New Orleans on the steamer Heredia an Atlantic green turtle, name and address unknown; age, twenty-five years; weight, 200 pounds; height, inconsiderable. When the turtle reached the aquarium, W. G. Schaumburg, director, discovered that its shell had been punctured.

Through the hole, which was an inch in diameter, the turtle had shipped a quart or more of water. This was drained out and a piece of shell removed. Then the hole was rinsed with a dilute solution of carbolic acid.

Then came the filling, a liberal dose of melted paraffin. This was covered with a layer of adhesive plaster and a coating of warm water. The turtle now sits up and takes nourishment, which consists of about two pounds of fish a day.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

British National Anthem

Henry Carey is credited with being the author of the British national anthem, which he wrote in 1779. He died in London in the year 1743. The anthem came first into fame in the autumn of 1745, when it was sung, and encored with repeated huzzas, at Drury Lane theater, as a loyal retort to the proclamation of the Pretender at Edinburgh. Carey's authorship has been accredited by several good authorities. One story goes that the anthem was sung in Latin in James II's chapel, and was preserved as a Jacobite hymn, the music from an air composed by Dr. John Bull.

That is the story which the scholars tell. This is the story which the scholars tell for existence, leaving a family in want; yet he had given us a blessed heritage in the ballad, "Sally in Our Alley." He added to our language the expression "Nanny-pamby," a title of some of his verses.

MISSING A CHANCE

"Half the world doesn't know how the other half lives." "Then why doesn't congress investigate the matter at once?"

Peculiar Ant Species

The London zoo reports the arrival of a colony of umbrella ants from Trinidad. They are called umbrella ants because they live on rose petals. Petals, which the ants eat, are ordinarily not used as umbrellas, but in this case they are. The ants drag the rose petals to and from their hills, much like a person carries an umbrella. In Trinidad, the rose petals are used as sunshades rather than as umbrellas.

Honesty Defined

On being asked by his son to explain the meaning of the word "honesty" a father replied: "My son, the word 'honesty' is a hard word to define. People have a variety of views on that subject, but I think I can explain to you by an illustration. Suppose you went to the bank with a customer's check for $50, and by mistake the paying teller gave you $20. Well, if you gave your partner five of that extra ten, that would be honest."

Gale Plays Queer Prank

When a gale struck the home of George Nelson in a small New England town it ripped off one chimney on his house and blew a hole through the other, leaving a stable shell and in a way disturbing the top layers of brick or other parts of the building.

Really Simple

He had proposed to her, as is still the custom with some people, and her answer had been "No, No." Can you imagine then, why he brushed her off so suddenly to his manly breast and then rushed off to buy the license? Well, it's very simple: They were both English teachers and so knew very well that two negatives make an affirmative.

Nature's Wisdom

Nature gives to every time and season some beauties of its own; from morning to night, as from the cradle to the grave, is but a succession of changes so gentle and easy that we can scarcely mark their progress.—Dickens.

Success has no secrets. Her voice is forever ringing through the wilderness and crying in the wilderness, and the burden of her cry is the one word—WILL. This is the declaration of every man and woman who has succeeded.—Grit.

Record for Bad English

LEGISLATIVE LETTER

By O. W. TURNER

Sacramento.—The legislature has adjourned for the thirty-day period provided by the constitution and will meet again at the end of February. It is the hope of Speaker Merriam that it will then be possible to get through with the business within the adjourned six weeks and adjourn sine die about the first week in April. This is Merriam's hope, but it is a hope which very few of his colleagues expect to see realized.

In the first place we have more bills introduced than usual, and that of course means more business to transact. Then again there are a number of subjects which are likely to create long, drawn-out debates, and finally there is always the possibility of new business or new events to delay adjournment.

The budget seems to meet with unanimous approval, and insofar as it is possible to look into the future, it will be adopted practically as submitted by the governor. As originally submitted it did not include in the main budget the appropriations for the so-called self-sustaining departments, but these have been added and they form the only subject of discussion.

Originally it was the plan of the governor to turn into the state treasury all surplus derived from moneys collected by those departments, but the supreme court has held that this cannot be done. The result is that there will be a large surplus in the different funds which must remain unless gotten rid of in some other way. There is a unanimity of opinion that a large surplus should not be allowed to accumulate, but there is a difference of opinion as to how that should be accomplished.

Some idea of what the surplus will be and from where derived may be gained by a few quotations from the estimates of receipts and expenditures in the several departments for the coming two years:

The banking department is expected to take in $551,882 and to spend $412,630. The fish and game commission will have a revenue of $1,650,462 and should spend $1,253,899. The real estate commission will have a revenue in the matter of surplus with a revenue of $333,727 and expenditures of $236,855, but best of all, the corporation commission will probably take in $1,549,240 and spend only $444,593.

The question arises as to the advisability of reducing the fees in any of those departments if they are not excessive, and whether it would not be better to continue the present schedule of fees and turn the surplus money—estimated at $4,000,000—into the treasury for some useful purpose? This is the question which the senate will be asked to decide when they return from their recess and upon which they are supposed to consult their constituents in the meantime.

Among the bills introduced is one by Assemblyman Dodge of Los Angeles which proposes to prohibit candidates from securing more than one party nomination. Dodge says it is absurd that a man should be the candidate of parties so far apart as the Republicans and Socialists.

Another measure proposes that when a judge from one of the smaller counties sits as a justice of the supreme court he shall receive more than any of the larger cities he shall, during the period that he occupies the city bench receive the same salary as the city judge. It frequently happens that a judge from one of the smaller counties sits for months in the city court and draws only his county judge's salary, though he is performing all the duties of his city brother, and has the extra expense of being away from home.

Another effort to establish a state institution in southern California, so that the state will be a fully equipped state if division should ever come, proposes a second state fair at Riverside. The board of control, however, opposes the scheme of a southern peninsula.

San Francisco wants the control of its water front with a ferry building and that means a long and hard fight, whether it gets the prize or not. It represents too much patronage to be allowed to slip easily out of the grasp of the state.

A bill providing for the licensing of credit unions in the state of California has been introduced by J. J. Hollister of Santa Barbara and Ed Sample of San Diego. The credit unions would be placed under the supervision of the state building and loan commissioner.

An emergency bill hearing the approval of the board of control and the governor proposes the appropriation of $293,283 to reimburse the department of agriculture for money spent in combating the hoof and mouth disease.

Membership of the pharmacy board would be reduced from seven to five under a bill in the senate. All members to be licensed pharmacists.

Merely Preparatory

"I have been told," said the football player to his fiancée, "that you have been engaged before; that I am not the first." Two hundred and fifty-five feet is the average height of the big redwood sequoia tree, although specimens exceeding 320 feet with trunk diameter of 80 to 95 feet near the ground have been measured.

Our many years of experience has taught us that it is impossible to do perfect cleaning with cheap, inferior methods. That is why we found it necessary to invest nearly $500,000 in the equipment of a plant and the establishment of an expert organization to do the quality of work demanded by our customers.

As the Boy Saw It

Little Carl was asked if he would rather have a little sister or a little brother. He asked for a dog. "You can't have one," said his father. "Dogs cost money, and the money must go for the baby." A few days later a little brother was presented to Carl. "Look at him," he said to his grandmother, "all our money wasted on that!"

"The Man in the Moon"

The appearance of a face on the moon is due to the elevations and depressions on its surface, the so-called mountains of the moon, or craters. There being no atmosphere on the moon, the contrast between light and shadow is very great, and the arrangement of these shadows cast by the vast number of craters which cover the moon's surface gives the appearance of a face on the moon's surface.

NEWS OF MENLO PARK

Ray Hara has sold his property on Santa Cruz avenue to Mr. and Mrs. Ponzioloff, Menlo Park. The new purchasers are to improve the home.

A local wag says that an engine pulling a big train recently from the city to Redwood City by mistake took a draught of moonshine at the latter place instead of water, and when it arrived at Menlo Park blew out its head. That's nothing. Moonshine has done worse things than that. It does not matter where the stuff is manufactured whether in Redwood City or Milpitas, its effects are the same.

St. Joseph Alumni Association will hold its annual ball in Native Sons hall this evening. A big crowd of dancers is expected to trip the light fantastic to the catchy music of Johnny Hope's orchestra. Special features are to be introduced that will delight the throng. He present and enjoy these novelties. Dancing until 2 o'clock. Young folks who miss this event will miss something worthwhile.

A mammoth dredger arrived at Ravenswood during the week having come up the bay on a big ship from San Francisco. It is to be used in preparing ground for the approaches to the Dumbarton bridge. Active work has begun on the big span.

Last Sunday morning the stork, whose visitations have always been welcome to every home from time immemorial, visited the domicile of Mr. and Mrs. William Feeley leaving a baby girl. The young father is naturally proud of the first born and is receiving the congratulations of his numerous friends.

It was learned yesterday on splendid authority that the Southern Pacific Railroad Company would begin work on the electrification of its system between San Francisco and San Jose by the first of April of this year and that the enterprise would be complete by December next. With that cannot be questioned. With the advent of an electric system down the peninsula, the population of San Mateo county would double in a very short time and land values would go skyrocketing. No agency could possibly build up the peninsula quicker than rapid transportation such as this system would give commuters could reach their work at any hour and at any time at rates less than one half they are now paying. Thousands would be lured to this section by such attractions. Moral: Now is the time to buy property in San Mateo county.

Palo Alto appears to be anxious to form a new county to be carved out of the territory between Belmont and Sunnyvale. The College City seems to be the only one anxious for such a nonsensical move. Rather than form a new county it would be much better for this community to go into San Francisco under the proposed amalgamation plan, body and bones than make an alliance with Palo Alto.

Pleading guilty to the illegal transportation of intoxicating liquor, Anthony Alias, taxi driver of Menlo Park, and Edward Griffin, who drives a taxi in this city, were sentenced by Judge E. D. Lakin Thursday morning to pay the minimum fine of $500 each or to spend six months in the county jail. Indications were that the fines would be paid.

E. Britton, superintendent of the Bear Gulch Water Company is preparing his annual report to be sent only.

STORY OF DIXIELAND BROUGHT TO LIFE IN "ABRAHAM LINCOLN"

The charm and enchantment of the old South in the days before the devastation of the war came upon it—the days of Washington, Jefferson and the heroes of the Revolution; the days of Jackson and Clay, Calhoun, the Lees and their contemporaries; when plantations were full of abundance and gentle folk held court at country mansions, are called to life again in all their grace, romance and chivalry in the greatest of all films, "Abraham Lincoln," which comes to the Sequoia Theatre next Monday and Tuesday Feb. 2 and 3.

The whole world has felt the enchantment of Dixieland since the motion pictures and songs have carried its beauties to all climes and nations.

In "Abraham Lincoln" signal honor has been done the history, the immortal heroes and the wonderful women of the South for the picture in an authentic historical document.

Robert Edward Lee, Stonewall Jackson, Jefferson Davis, and others who wrote their names high in the annals of the South's history came again in living, breathing forms to thrill the hearts of those who adore their memory.

The story of the picture touches the south at Hodgenville, Ky., the birthplace of Lincoln, at New Orleans, at Richmond, Va. Point: Anomattoc, Charleston, S. C.

On Tuesday there will be a matinee at 2:45. Manager O'Brien of the Sequoia Theatre requests that parents send their children to the matinee in order to leave as many seats as possible for the adults in the evening. This is among the best productions ever screened, and as there is to be no raise in prices a large crowd is anticipated.

HIGH PRAISE FOR "CLASSMATES"

West Pointer Adjutant Says Barthelemess Drama Is Absolutely Accurate

The West Point and army atmosphere in Dick Barthelemess' new First National picture, "Classmates," playing at the Sequoia Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 4 and 5, is strictly accurate—you may rely upon the West Point authorities personally as to that point.

Never before had the more or less sacred confines of the United States Military Academy been invaded by a movie colony and when finally the red tape was cut for Barthelemess to film some scenes there in "Classmates" the authorities demanded this one stipulation—accuracy. And that is one novel distinction regarding "Classmates."

It is the first film whose scenes actually were laid at the famous military school.

"GOLDEN RED" POSTPONED

"Golden Red," which was to have been shown at the Sequoia Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 9 and 10, has been postponed for the time being. The picture was to have been released from the studios and to have run its first appearance here on that date, but word has been received from the producers that the production will not be completed in time to be released at that time. Manager O'Brien of the Sequoia Theatre announced that "Golden Red" will be shown in its stead. This picture stars Anna Q. Nielson, James Kirkwood, Raymond Hatton and Sheldon Lewis.

Mrs. Twisselman is well known in the northern end of the county where she makes her home. The young couple will reside for the present in Burlingame.

WOODSIDE

Woodside has broken into motion pictures. A large number of actors and actresses from the Peninsula studio at San Mateo spent all of Saturday last in filming our scenery as the background for scenes in a picture drama, including a stage hold-up, a murder, the pursuit of the murderer by the sheriff and his posse and a church scene staged at our Woodside church. Whether or not the picture draws an audience the making of the picture called a crowd that included the most of our population and all of the youngsters there envied the two who were chosen for a part in the show.

Miss Hazel Wolfe entertained a number of her friends on Thursday afternoon in celebration of her twelfth birthday. Those present were Miss Hosford, Kathleen Gish, Ida Amussen, Edith Ferrari, Annie Ferrari, Lucy Tibbs, Mildred Frasier, Ethel Hallett, Helen Hallett, Mary Volpiano, Miss Hazel Meyer, Mrs. Lucy Hallett and Mrs. Arthur Wolfe.

After having been singularly free from any epidemic of colds heretofore, this last week found a number of the younger children quite seriously afflicted so that the school attendance has suffered thereby.

Jack Hosford of the Sequoia High School and Norman Macdonald of the local school have each installed radio sets during the last week and joined the colony of radio fans.

The many friends of Mrs. Haaker were sudden to hear of her passing away during the last week. Mrs. Haaker had spent most of her life here in Woodside and had raised her family to maturity here and to many of the older residents she was a very dear friend.

Mr. A. H. Audiffred has had a very painful experience with a case of infection which developed from a steel splinter in his finger. He has been under the doctor's care for some time but is now out of danger of the blood poisoning that was feared.

Mrs. Jos. L. Ross, Jr., is convalescing after a two weeks' illness. She is at the home of her sister, Mrs. Philip Kroeck of Redwood City.

Among those of our Woodside population who attended the Mardi Gras ball in San Francisco were Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Avonall, Mr. and Mrs. Solah Chamberlain, Dr. and Mrs. George Lyman, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hooper, Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Fleishacker and Miss Eleanor Fleishacker, and Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Allen.

The newly organized Christian Endeavor Society of Woodside held its first social gathering on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John D. Gish. Mrs. Albert Meyer, the organizer of the society, was in charge of the social program.

The warm weather of the past few days has served as a stimulus to our local gardeners and the good smell of the newly turned earth was heard on every side. Seed catalogues will furnish interesting reading for the next month.

MRS. B. V. WEEKS DIES
AT PESCADERO HOME

The hand of death fell heavily on Pescadero this week removing two pioneer settlers of that little community. The second to be called was Mrs. B. V. Weeks who passed away at her home on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Weeks was one of the oldest and best known of the residents of the outside town. Mrs. Weeks was the widow of the late B. V. Weeks, pioneer rancher of Pescadero and the mother of Edward and Fred Weeks of Pescadero. Another son, George Weeks, passed away a few years ago.

The funeral of the pioneer woman will be held from the Congregational church at Pescadero this afternoon. Rev. Burton Palmer of Santa Cruz will officiate at the ceremonies.

Mrs. Weeks was a native of New England and came to Pescadero at the time of her marriage to D. V. Weeks. She was 93 years old at the time of her death.

SUBSCRIPTION CONTEST

To enter the campaign is an easy matter. To win the biggest of all the cars is just as easy. You need only apply yourself during your spare moments.

You Can Enter Today

Elsewhere in this issue of the Times-Gazette appears an entry blank which, when properly filled out and brought or mailed to the Campaign Department of the Times-Gazette, will start you in the campaign with 5000 credits. Additional credits are obtained in two ways: one is by clipping the free credit-coupon which will appear in every issue of the Times-Gazette, and the other is by securing new and renewal subscription payments.

It makes no difference where you reside, so far as your chances of winning the biggest gifts are concerned. The distribution of the automobiles and all the other prizes has been so arranged that each will have an equal opportunity. Those living outside of Redwood City do not compete against those living in Redwood City. By this arrangement persons living farthest from Redwood City have the same opportunity as those living right in the city.

Campaign Is Short

The campaign is a very short one and under no circumstances will it be extended beyond the date advertised. And the end, a committee of judges whose names will appear later, will count and tabulate the credit totals, and those who have the most credits in their account will be awarded the prizes according to their relative standing—of credits. All others will receive sums in cash in proportion to their credit totals as explained in the announcement. Twenty per cent in cash is paid on every dollar collected by active participants who do not win a car, a radio or stated other prizes or cash prizes. The Times-Gazette is ambitious to be the home newspaper of this entire section. It already enjoys a most gratifying circulation in Redwood City and San Mateo county, but it expects to continue to build and add to its great family of readers, until there is a Times-Gazette in every home in San Mateo county.

There are two ways of building circulation. One is by the routine method of sending out solicitors, and the other is by a big, liberal prize campaign. The Times-Gazette is choosing the latter at this time because it enables this newspaper to secure the desired circulation more quickly (even though the cost is greater) and also to share with those who are willing to assist in the growth of this paper.

HOLDER OF OPTION

LOOSES IN SUIT

A suit filed in the Superior court here to force C. E. Pearsall and others to sell 1775 acres of land near Belmont to C. H. Steenburgh, holder of an alleged option, was decided in favor of the defendants this week by Judge Buck. The property belongs to the heirs of the late S. I. Allard from whom Pearsall has the tract leased.

It was alleged by the defendants that Steenburgh had leased the property from Allard, who shortly before his death had ejected Steenburgh from the land for failure to make the payments, and had leased it to Pearsall.
